DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Applicant's claim for domestic priority under 35 U.S.C. 119(e) is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102 and 103

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-5 and 7-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Morrissey et al. (Patent Application Publication US 2003/0206887 A1).

Morrissey et al. clearly teach short interfering RNA (siRNA) duplex molecules capable of mediating RNA interference (RNAi) against HBV expression. Also, please see [0166] wherein the invention provides for an expression vector comprising a nucleic acid sequence encoding at least one siRNA molecule of the invention. Please see at page 28, column 1, penultimate paragraph, and pages 29 and 30 wherein the siRNA may be administered as a treatment for an HBV related disease in humans. The siRNA molecules can also be administered to a patient in combination with other therapeutic compounds to increase the overall therapeutic effect while reducing the presence of side effects. Morrissey et al. clearly teach, at least, the isolated nucleic acid molecule having the sequence set forth by instant SEQ ID NO: 5.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Morrissey et al. (Patent Application Publication US 2003/0206887 A1).

Morrissey et al. as set forth supra.

Morrissey et al. fail to specifically teach the administration of lamivudine and/or interferon in addition to a nucleic acid molecule defined by one of the instantly disclosed sequence identifiers.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have administered to a HBV positive subject lamivudine and/or interferon alpha in addition to one of the instant siRNA molecules since according to Morrissey et al. the siRNA molecules can also be administered to a patient in combination with other therapeutic compounds to increase the overall therapeutic effect while reducing the presence of side effects. Morrissey et al. clearly teach that Interferon alpha (IFN-alpha) is the most common therapeutic for treating HBV infection; and Lamivudine (3TC.RTM.) has received approval from the FDA as a therapeutic for treating chronic HBV infection. Both respective therapeutics are only partially effective, thus the motivation to combine with the antiviral siRNA inhibitors for treatment of HBV since Interferon-alpha (and/or Lamivudine) and siRNAs work by very different mechanisms therefore interfering mechanisms would not be expected according to Morrissey et al.
